

The Washington Post: Concord Eastridge Finishes Work on George Mason Conference and Hotel Center

<http://www.washingtonpost.com>

October 25, 2010

George Mason University has a new $50 million conference and hotel center. Concord Eastridge, an Arlington real estate development firm, said it has wrapped up work on the 179,000 - square-foot project, which includes 149 guest rooms, 20,000 square feet of conference space, a dozen meeting rooms and two ballrooms.